

New at CANDLES:

Dimensions in Testimony™ Interactive Theater & “My Story Matters” Exhibit

Join us for a special public opening on Sunday, March 10th from 1:00-4:00pm EST.

Walk through the new “My Story Matters” exhibit and our interactive Dimensions in Testimony™ theater, a groundbreaking initiative developed by the USC Shoah Foundation to preserve and share Holocaust survivor stories, like that of Eva Kor.

DIMENSIONS IN TESTIMONY

USC Shoah Foundation’s Dimensions in Testimony™ invites you to learn from Holocaust survivors like Eva Kor in a new way. Through interactive testimony, you can ask questions of survivor images, one-on-one, guided by your curiosity and interests. You may want to know more about their lives before, during, or after the Holocaust. Or you may want to learn about their experience with hate, love, and resilience in the face of adversity. We hope your interaction leads to deeper reflection on the meaning and consequences of the Holocaust.

“My Story Matters” asks you to consider your own life story as a way to enrich your interaction with Dimensions in Testimony survivor stories. In this exhibit, you are encouraged to define your own identity, connect your story with others across cultures, and reflect on your choices for caring for people in your community. Ultimately, we hope you leave this exhibit informed, curious, and inspired to make a difference.
